Nutrition & Healing subscribers are interested in knowing ALL available options when it comes to staying healthy and fighting disease -- even if that means delving into treatments that are controversial. They also pay a lot of attention to how the government reacts to the medical world, what treatments are "accepted" by mainstream medicine or the FDA and what new treatments have been brushed aside because they challenge these establishments.

These nutrition-conscious subscribers are interested in information on diet, vitamins, minerals, herbs, natural hormones, natural energies, and other substances and techniques to prevent and heal illness, while prolonging a healthy lifespan.
